

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A touch screen assembly for an automotive vehicle includes a rearview mirror being disposed in an interior of the automotive vehicle and having at least one glass surface. The touch screen assembly also includes a plurality of electrodes attached to the at least one glass surface. The electrodes are closely coupled defining a contact area. The contact area is a region, when touched by an occupant changes electrical characteristics between the electrodes.